1.	July 3, 2012	India's CCI in talks with other competition regulators about penalty guidelines (By Freny Patel) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - CCI is in talks with competition regulators in other countries, like Europe, to come up with clear-cut guidelines and make the penalties as scientific or mathematical as possible. - India's Competition Acts provide for penalties of up to 10% of annual turnover or three times net profit during the period that any anti-competitive agreements. CCI decides on the basis of merits of each case. http://www.ft.com/cms/s/2/8e16b5b4-c534-11e1-940d-00144feabdc0.html#axzz25TXHgrVI
2.	July 3, 2012	CCI Chairman Ashok Chawla focuses on quick decision-making and big cases (By John Samuel Raja D & Shruti Choudhury) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - India's competition regulator 23 months to decide on a complaint that cement companies were colluding to fix product prices. - Ashok Chawla said that the new CCI is positioning itself to be about selectivity and speed. He further asserted that CCI will not accept weak cases and the cases it admits; it will pursue them with vigour. - CCI will start investigation only when there is a very high degree of prima facie evidence. - CCI had 58 cases pending in December 2011. This has dropped to around 20 today. http://articles.economictimes.indiatimes.com/2012-07-03/news/32523916_1_cci-chairman-ashok-chawla-clear-cases-competition-commission
3.	Jul 04, 2012	CCI must regulate all sectors: Chawla <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Anti-trust body CCI wants to retain the powers to regulate competition issues in all the sectors including banking, insurance, telecom and power, saying there is no conflict of jurisdiction. - Essentially and conceptually the two regulators have to work in coordination and according to us there is no issue of conflict of jurisdiction. Chawla added that when the government brought out the competition law and prescribed a market regulator "then everybody should be subject to that unless there are extremely serious public policy

July 9, 2012	Cement cos wait for stay on CCI penalty to avoid provisioning <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - The eleven cement companies that were penalised for price cartelisation have moved the Competition Appellate Tribunal against the order. - Mr Sudip Bandyopadhyay, Managing Director, Destimoney Securities, said the penalty on a core sector such as the cement industry will weaken the foreign and domestic investor confidence. http://www.thehindubusinessline.com/industry-and-economy/article3621102.ece
5.	Jul 21, 2012	CCI to frame regulations to decide the penalty levied on companies (By Shruti Choudhury) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - The competition regulator will frame clear regulations to decide the penalty it imposes on companies found guilty under anti-competition laws in a bid to ensure that its orders pass the scrutiny of appellate authorities. CCI will issue a regulation to add the guidelines under section 27 of the Act. - The Act in its current form allows the competition watchdog to issue regulations regarding procedures on its own without having to approach the Cabinet which is a time consuming process. - Vinod Dhall, former Chairman, CCI said that in respect of the proportionality of the fines, the CCI need to consider the approach of some other competition authorities, and also issue guidelines on this subject. http://articles.economictimes.indiatimes.com/2012-07-21/news/32776845_1_competition-act-competition-commission-average-turnover

9.	Jul 31, 2012	Competition commission needs to have guidelines on fines (Vivek Law) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - In an interview with livemint, Pallavi Shroff points out couple of glitches in the CCI's policy. One is that the CCI or the director general investigates, using sophisticated tools and an economic tool of investigation is very important as far as the competition law is concerned. In order to impose high fine it is necessary to look at the economics or the econometric models of certain products otherwise it would be very unfair. - CCI also needs to have set guidelines for fining like other countries. Globally every country has the formula of how they are going to fine which CCI needs to put in the system. http://www.livemint.com/articles/2012/07/30220718/Competition-commission-needs-t.html?type=tp

10.	Aug 9, 2012	Ashok Chawla on what gives the CCI its teeth (by Arlene Chang) In an interview with Firstpost Ashok Chawla discussed about the pressure from other regulatory bodies and state monopolies. Some of the pointers are the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Overall we have about 275 cases of which 210 have been decided and penalties have been imposed on about 30— most others have been closed so far. - The imposition of the fine is a culmination of the legal process , which starts with a complaint or information to us. The penalties have covered a fairly wide range of sectors and activities — both in the manufacturing and the services sector. - So many corporates and people who have to ensure that the act is followed are not entirely aware of the Act. they are certainly not ignoring it, they are trying to take it seriously. - CCI hopes to strengthen themselves, both in terms of capacity and in terms of their investigative abilities. CCI will put out to all stakeholders the fact that most other activities that are going to cause problems will be put under the scanner and that this is

Sept. 2012	Ceteris Peribus (Nathan India- Newsletter) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - The article highlights the pitfalls of CCI's approach to abuse of dominance cases. - One is that of defining "relevant market": if sound empirical techniques are not applied to reliable data the market can be defined too narrowly or too broadly. In DLF case, the CCI ruled in favour of the Director General who defined the market too narrowly and rejected the need for empirical analysis of that definition. Determination of dominance is also complex as it depends on definition of relevant market. - It is suggested that CCI should take an "effects-based" approach. It should ask whether a firm wields enough market power to perpetrate abuse regardless of market share in a defined relevant market. The CCI should determine <ul style="list-style-type: none"> i) Whether or not terms and conditions are manifestations of efficiencies, ii) Why the accused firm is able to impose such terms and conditions (e.g., barriers to entry, natural or otherwise, that prevent others from offering better terms and conditions), iii) Whether the terms and conditions have affected market competition, and iv) The loss to consumers as a result of the terms and conditions. http://www.nathaninc.com/company/organization/nathan-india
