

Umut Aydin is Assistant Professor of Political Science at the Universidad Católica de Chile, Santiago. She has a PhD in Political Science from University of Washington, Seattle, and an MA degree from McGill University, Canada. She was a post-doctoral fellow at the European University Institute, Italy, and a George C. Lamb Jr. Fellow in Regulatory Governance at Duke University's Kenan Institute for Ethics.

Her research lies at the intersection of comparative and international political economy, and is focused broadly on regulatory politics in a globalizing world. Her current research focuses on competition law and policy in developing countries, especially in Turkey, Mexico and Chile. Her articles on competition policy have been published or are forthcoming in the Antitrust Bulletin, Comparative European Politics, Journal of European Integration, and Law and Contemporary Problems among other journals. Her published work on competition law and policy includes articles and chapters on EU's external relations in competition policy, the International Competition Network, and Turkish competition law and policy.