India, a country of immense diversity and socio-cultural richness, grapples with deep-rooted economic and non-economic inequalities. Since the economy started growing faster in the 1990s, inequality has shot up. However, the fact that inequality has grown with growth does not mean that we should abandon growth.

Keeping this context in mind, CUTS International, under its project 'Good and Better Jobs in India', is organising this webinar to understand the views of diverse experts on this issue.
